Overview

“International Association of Risk Management in Medicine (IARMM)”, was founded as an international medical society for health and safety in Switzerland on April, 2002. Its headquarters has been moved to Tokyo, Japan since 2005. This academic medical society held the 1st World Congress of Clinical Safety (1WCCS) in University of London, September 2012 with delegates from over 30 countries. And the 2nd World Congress (2WCCS) was held in University of Heidelberg, Germany with delegates from over 45 countries

The main purpose of this world congress is to improve and promote a science of risk and emergency management for patient safety, medication safety, medical device safety and infectious disease control together around the world. The 3rd WCCS will be held in Madrid, Spain in September 2014 under a keyword of “Clinical Risk Management”.

While by the end of the 20th century, new topics such as clinic gene technology had been added to medicine’s paramount concern with health, it should not be forgotten that health and safety remain integral to human well being. In the 21st century, risk and crisis management are widely recognized as one of fundamental aspects of human existence.

On the above accounts, the 3rd WCCS is promoting internationally improvement and promotion of safety cultures for medical service & practice, pharmacology, infectious disease, etc. The 3rd WCCS will be held in response to many requests to exchange knowledge and experiences with our international experts in risk and emergency management. We are inviting experts from Spain, other European countries, North America plus those from several international organizations. The 3rd WCCS will also host many delegates from Europe, US, Canada, Central-South America, Australia, Asia, Africa, and the Middle East.

It is expected that the Congress will contribute to improvement of safety cultures in healthcare around the world.
