

Basic Principal Ways for Covid-19 Prevention

April 9, 2020

Ryoji Sakai, President,

International Association for Risk Management in Medicine

<http://www.iarimm.org/>

The virus is a contact infection and has the following infection routes:

(Route A) Human-to-human transmission route:

Clouded meeting, handshake, hug, conversation in few distance, sneezing, elevator, escalator, et It can be defended with a mask, glasses, and face guard.

(Route B) Human-to-object-to-human transmission route:

Door knob, handrail, strap, handles, key, telephone, fax machine, post box, desk, drawer knob, chair, PC keyboards PC mice, hand- touch parts in printer, tablet, smartphone, tablet, toilet buttons power switch, touch panel, toothbrush, cup, newspaper, flyer, printed document, clear file, bill, money, credit card, surface of mask, etc. Should disinfection your work and living place, work with gloves, every day.

Washing of hair, body, clothes, bedding, shoes.

Indoor ventilation (at least twice a day for 30 minutes or more) and disinfection.

Daily hygiene is fundamental to infection prevention.